Atlantis Returns: Part 1 The Reawakening Colin K Smith
The Past, Present, and Future finally collides in this fascinating, action-packed, enlightening account of our long-forgotten ancient past catching up with its impending Earth-shattering future! The epic story begins at a time when Earth, Mars, Venus and Pluto were all in similar proximity 'goldilocks' orbits around the Sun. Pluto then became entangled with the orbit of Venus and collided with its moon Triton, resulting in the distinctive heart-shaped region of Pluto called Tombaugh Regio and explaining its lack of ancient remnant craters. Venus was tilted off its axis into a retrograde motion anomalous to other planets and sent into closer orbit with the Sun. Its moons then impacted and with increased volcanic activity its surface was annihilated, explaining why it does not have the same meteor crater topography as other inner planets. However, Venusian races had acquired sufficient intellect to predict their fate and evacuated in good time to Earth and Europa, forming the Atlantis and Europan Empires. At first, they showed no interest in our ancestors, which they regarded the same as we view ape species today. Then, around 450K years ago the Europan's arrived on Earth, to retrieve precious metals required for catalytic regeneration of their Europa moon. They then genetically modified the evolving human species by introducing genes to develop intellect and speech, producing a workforce able to undertake the manual jobs associated with their mining operations. Over years we became integrated into the flourishing Atlantis Empire, with each of its blueprint cities based on a Bay environment, with an anti-gravity Mothership at the heart of its harbour and interconnecting canals and waterways spreading inland and underground. Then, just when the peaceful and prosperous cosmopolitan civilization was at its unrivalled peak, it was sent into cataclysmic turmoil around 70K years ago as the Scholtz Red Dwarf star system passed through the Oort Cloud at the outer reaches of our solar system. The Reptilian Scholtzian race wanted to escape from their dying planetary system and had been preparing a surprise attack, aimed at the most critical time to cause the greatest impact. Summer solstice was the most important day on the Venusian calendar and in keeping with tradition, the annual gathering of Dignitaries began in the Empires most sacred and powerful capital city; Atlantis, on the island once known as Hy-Brasil, off Ireland's east coast. Atlantis is described in glorious detail as it is approached and entered by a visiting Rosslyn Mining Manager, named Maxor, before its destruction as he hastily retreats through its underground tunnel network. He then becomes the founding leader of the resultant human resistance army, in unison with its Venusian counterparts in a cold-war battle known as the 30K War, which dramatically ended as the Venusian and Human forces eventually find a way to defeat their oppressors and release them from their tyrannous rule. The Venusian and Scholtzian's then made peace, joining forces before retreating from human habitations to honour our efforts and return us back to our natural, albeit now rather advanced intellectual state! Our Overlords had now become distracted as more extra-terrestrials took interest in us, courtesy of intergalactic links made feasible by photon belt cycles, including our current one! Freedom ironically became our ancestor's biggest enemy now as endless territorial struggles forced technological knowledge into ruin, obscurity, and folklore, before we eventually started to recover with the onset of the industrial revolution. However, finally, the past catches up with the present and following an unexpected encounter in waters off the Welsh coast, a highly publicised series of astonishing events unravels, captured by social media and instantly broadcast globally. Then as G7 Leaders face the press, humanity faces the fact it really is not alone in the Universe after all, let alone on Earth!
