This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1898 Excerpt: ...on a position; on e position for to the; on u position for to you-This is a class belonging alone to Eclectic shorthand and is of great value; the writer should be very familiar with the entire list. The second class comprises phrases of three words, the middle of which is a preposition or conjunction; as by and by; in this class the first and last words are written side by side or connectedly, the middle word being omitted. The third class comprises phrases composed of several common words which are represented by their natural signs and are written connected, as, in a few days, in which minute i is written on a position for in a, to which f is joined for few and the ds sign turned on its upper side for days. No more of this is written by minute n with r on o position for no more, upward o for of and ds sign for this; time and again, by t on the i position for time, nd for and, and a minute a for again; now and then by minute n for now and, and minute th for then; as soon as, minute uon j position for as soon, with downward a for as. In practice some students seem to fear phrase writing as illegible while there is no reason to do so. I think the trouble generally arises from the inability of the pupil to see things connectedly, seeing only one thing at a time, instead of the phrase as a whole, he sees it in-a-few-days. If such students would give more time and be willing to labor on, their writing power would be greatly increased thereby. THE TRAINING OF STENOGRAPHERS. (CONTINUED FROM APRIL NUMBER.) BY C. H. DODGE. Our young man has finished his notes and gone to his typewriter. We are curious to know what sort of ideas he has imbibed concerning the delicate and costly mechanism he uses. Is it bright and clean, and well-kept? A good workman never neglects ...
